Dear Anthony Wood,

I regret to inform you that your work does not meet the present requirements of Creative Computing. I hope you will not consider this a reflection on the quality of your submission. It has been rejected because we are limited in the quantity and type of material we can publish.

Please forgive this impersonal acknowledgement of your contribution. However, the number of submissions we receive makes it impossible for us to provide individual comment. I appreciate your thinking of Creative Computing and giving us the opportunity to see your work.

We wish you the best of luck toward publishing this elsewhere.

Sincerely Yours,

Peter J. Fee
Editorial Assistant
